POLICE PRECIPITATE NASTY DISTURBANCE WITH GRAVE RESULTS

WITHOUT SOUNDING BELL PATROL DASHES HEADLONG INTO DEFENCELESS CROWD

SEVERAL STUDENTS ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED

"Stick Together and Strike Out," Cries Gallant Capt. Dice to Stalwart Preservers of the Peace—Of the Six McGill Men Arrested Three Were Non-Combatants

As the procession moved east from the M.A.A.A. grounds along St. Catherine St., the usual trolley pulling took place, but the Westmount police wisely decided that it wasn't worth while to interfere, but as the crowd crossed the civic boundary between Westmount and Montreal it was seen that a row was imminent. However, nothing happened till the procession arrived in the neighborhood of Port Street. Then another trolley came down, and the police decided to interfere.

The man who pulled down the trolley was seized by the police, and when a body of students attempted to rescue him, Capt. Dice of No. 10 Station, who had charge of the detachment of police made the remark: "Stick together boys—strike out," and batons were used indiscriminately. In the mix-up that followed, the man escaped, but another man, a non-combatant was arrested and taken under an escort of police to the Guy St. Station. The crowd of course followed, and another mix-up took place in which the police were rotten-egged, but no one was arrested. Dean Moysie, of the Faculty of Arts, who happened to be there, addressed the students and advised them to go home. He then turned and remonstrated with Capt. Dice for the actions of the police, but the Capt. said: "They pulled trolleys and rotten-egged us—we can not stand for that!" Dean Moysie seeing that further intervention would be of no use turned and entered the Station. In the meanwhile, a stampede of the students took place and a great race took place from Guy street to McGill College Avenue, but when they arrived breathlessly at the corner of the street, they found another squad of police, who immediately started in to mix things up. Three or four men were arrested among whom was a non-participant. This man remonstrated with the police, and said: "Come up to the High School. The policeman asked: 'Are you defying me?' No chance was given to answer and a bystander was heard to remark:—"Fine fellows to play such a trick." This man, though a student, was a non-participant but he was seized along with the rest, and bundled into a patrol wagon.

The rest of the crowd then started to walk up McGill College Avenue to Strathcona Hall where a song practice of the Rooters' Club was to come off, but when about half way up the Avenue a very brutal action on the part of the police took place. A patrol wagon, No. 5, came dashing up in the wake of the crowd and without ringing the bell or otherwise giving warning, the driver urged his horses right into the crowd, and four or five men were run down, two of whom had to be removed to the hospital. This patrol did not stop but kept on up the street to Sherbrooke.

This inhuman action on the part of the police shows up well the spirit they possess when engaged in any dealings with McGill students.

By this time, a crowd had collected at Strathcona Hall and when the patrol-wagon which had wrought such havoc down the street arrived on the scene, the police in it tried to disperse the gathering. The students, however, after a brief scuffle, retired within the University gates, where they contented themselves with addressing sundry remarks to the police gathered in the road way.

At this junction, Capt. Dice was heard to remark in a war-like tone that "the police would soon cut loose unless the students quieted down" and "one of my men will tear things." This again illustrates the spirit of the police on such occasions.

Just as the Captain uttered those words, an elderly man standing near the gates, was struck by a missile which layed him out. Willing student hands lifted the man and carried him into Strathcona Hall and a call was put in for the Royal Victoria Hospital ambulance. This incident quieted the crowd for a few minutes and police, and in a few minutes all dispersed.

Bad Weather Largely Responsible for Wretched Showing at Yesterdays Meet—Intercollegiate Prospects are None too Bright

The Annual Inter-Class Sports, for once, fell a trifle flat, thanks principally to the weather, which was neither suitable for taking part in athletics, nor to witnessing them. The times in the races and the distances in the field events were hardly up to the standard of previous years; but doubtless the teams will do much better at Toronto next week under better weather conditions and after another week of Tom Graydon's training.

There was the usual preliminary "scrap" between the Sophs and Freshmen, in which it appeared that neither gained any particular advantage over the other. However, both classes gained a very decided advantage over the athletic committee, as when they arrived there was no one present to take their admission.

It Applies To You

Every man should carry Life Insurance, and should carry it early in life. Then the load is light, and no salary is so small that a portion of it can not, and ought not to be laid aside for so worthy a purpose by the man who has no one dependent upon him, just as much as the man who does. For if he is not a man of family, he is no man at all if he does not ultimately plan to be. Should his plans thus miscarry, there are even then few really better, safer, long-time investments than a good Life Insurance Policy. The holding of such an investment makes a man a better citizen in every way; gives him something more than a hireling's interest in the world of affairs; makes of him something more than a social parasite to be blown off by the first adverse gale and to be trodden under the leaded heel of fate.—Telead (Ohio) Times.

UNJUSTIFIABLE VIOLENCE

Another regrettable fracas took place last night between the police force of Montreal and the students of the University. As on many previous occasions much evidence of an unreliable nature has been brought forward and as there is a probability of a somewhat serious sequel to this affair in the police courts, it is highly desirable, that a common sense attitude should be adopted towards the matter by the students.

We have neither space to spare nor time to spend in lamenting this collision with the authorities or perhaps we might say their collision with us, however, we wish to urge two things upon the readers of this editorial.

First: if you were an eye witness of any of the various phases of this affair, write out, in a few brief words, what you saw and heard, sign your name to it, with your address and send it to us.

Second: if you know any responsible persons who were witnesses of any part of the occurrence, notify Mr. Gregor Barclay, or the Editor of this paper.

Three years ago an occurrence of a similar nature occurred and on that occasion it was clearly proved that the police acted in an unwarranted manner although they undoubtedly had some provocation. In the previous disturbance they made no attempt to arrest students but deliberately stretched them cold on the street and then even went so far as deliberately to kick them when down.

This matter was taken to court and after some delay a severe reprimand was administered to several members of the force.

It is a notorious fact that the Montreal police force is an underpaid and undermanned body of men and it is, perhaps, too much to expect common-sense action from individuals possessing the intellect and ability of the average Montreal policeman.

There is, however, a limit to all things, and the unwarranted action on the part of the drivers of the patrol wagon, who with no warning and with their gong silent, charged through the students while they were proceeding up McGill College Avenue, calls for immediate action.

It is attested by many eye-witnesses that the bell on the patrol wagon number five was ringing upon St. Catherine Street, but that when it turned up McGill College Avenue and bore down upon the unsuspecting students moving up to the Strathcona Hall, no warning was given of its approach.

As a result several men were knocked down and two injured.

There can be no justification brought forward for actions of this description. This form of reckless brutality cannot be tolerated.

Are we to be ridden down by a ruthless police? Should men who take no active part in an affray of this nature be liable to arrest? Are the police at liberty to endanger lives at their own good pleasure?

These are questions to which there is but one answer, and that is, NO!

We offer no apology for those students who were arrested in active defiance of law and order. We have no fault to find with action of a reasonable and warrantable kind on the part of the police, but we must insist that when the police force of Montreal oversteps its powers and acts in a manner which is both inhuman and unjustifiable it must be called to account. There is no doubt that a strong prejudice against the students exists among members of the force and that they act accordingly when opportunity arises is only too well-known.

Ignorance and prejudice have been features which, in the past, have marked the behaviour of the guardians of the law in all such encounters with McGill men.

Retaliation by the students can and must only be obtained through the ordinary processes of the courts of justice, and we demand that a sane and careful investigation into both sides of the case, be made by competent parties and that if evidence is obtained to warrant action of a punitive nature, steps be taken immediately to this end.

EDITORIAL NOTE

We have nothing but the highest praise for the cool and collected manner in which police-lieutenants Grandchamps and MacMahon acted after the students and the police had arrived at the Strathcona Hall.

These men acted with common-sense and consideration, and in withdrawing their men when they did, saved still further trouble.

If men of such stamp had been in charge of those police who were mixed up with the Students on St. Catherine Street, it is probable that this regrettable incident would not have occurred.

FRESHMAN PROVIDES COMEDY FOR MR. SAD

The Genial German Watches Their Billiard Contest

As announced in a previous issue Mr. Sad returned from Toronto on Monday morning. Yesterday morning he had an amusing experience with a freshman. We publish this account of this incident in his own words.

On entering the billiard room in the Union I was accosted by a freshman with a copy of the Daily in his pocket.

I thought at first that he was going to try and enunciate the requisite formula and I awaited with interest to see if young and untrained lips could utter the matadoral masterpiece necessary to gain the coveted honor. It would have been a nasty shock to have been captured by a verdant newcomer and when his first words were "You are" I felt that ignominious capture was to be my lot, however, the rest of his sentence was "just in time to get trimmed at English billiards." I breathed a sigh of relief. He was very fresh and Scherziks gave me a wink signifying that I would have some fun if I took him so I signified a willingness to roll the ivory with him and we started. He didn't play a very good game in spite of his cocksureness, but his conversation was rich. He informed me that I held my cue wrong, that I should not put the red when I could make a cannon and condescendingly offered me thirty in a hundred. I was a bit annoyed at a while and then proceeded to run away from him, eventually giving him a good trimming.

After the game we had a short chat, at least he did the chatting. He announced that he was laying for Mr. Sad and that he had several clues which would result in a successful end to his quest and he evidently had an idea that the Literary and Debating society would have a much more successful season after he joined it than ever before. Finally, becoming just a little bored with him I quietly pulled his Daily from the pocket of his coat and tore it in pieces. He watched me in open mouthed amazement and when I finally announced that I was Mr. Sad, he tore madly downstairs to the Union to try and obtain another copy, discovering, however, that every number of the paper had been taken by enthusiastic readers. Discomfited he then tried the business office but the sight of the austere looking Mr. Reid smoking a cigar proved too much for him and he retired in confusion only to find that I had disappeared from the scene.

TEAM READY FOR HARD GAME WITH PRESBYTERIANS TO-DAY

Struggle This Afternoon Promises to be Exciting and Close
—Rooters Club will be Out in Force

R. M. C. VS. SECONDS AT 10.15 THIS MORNING

Queen's will line up somewhat differently than last Saturday this afternoon for the big game.

Some of the men are not in as good condition as they might be on account of the rough handling they received in Ottawa. "O.sie" Kennedy and "Gib" Reid are still sore while "Shorty" Dick, Reid's substitute, is suffering from a lame back.

Hallett is in fine form and McGill men are awaiting with interest to see the duel between the lanky Presbyterian and Billington. Ed. Elliott will be in line again and the big wing man should provide some thrills for the spectators. Elliott is admittedly one of the finest wing men playing the game. He is not shown on the Queen's line-up but the latest information is to the effect that he will be in the game. Joseph S. Wittmore, who trained the Hamilton Tigers, has got the Queen's boys under his care and they are all in excellent condition. Queen's came out of the fracas in Ottawa a good deal better than College.

The red and white squad are all in good shape both intermediate and seniors. Rankin will be missed from the scrimmage but either Reid or Tingling will hold down his place. Montgomery at centre scrim has been doing most excellent work all week. For two years now a St. Andrew's College man has played in this position for McGill and both of them have been good men. "Monty" has been tackling like a fiend all week and should help considerably on Saturday.

Buster Matheson and Cruikshanks will hold down the inside wing positions to-day. Buster is in excellent shape and can be counted on to do his share of the work. Jules Rankin at middle will vie with Watrous in gaining ground against the Kingstons. Timmins is very fast and a good tackle while the big Brantford line man is not a whit behind Jules in this respect. Laing and Lewis will hold down the outside wing positions. Jack is a bad knock on Thursday but will be in line.

Who Shaughnessy will start on the back line it is impossible to predict. Lee and Billington are certain.

but between Draper, Fisher and Masson it is hard to choose. Masson has had the most experience but he is inclined to be selfish. They all three run, kick and catch equally well.

The second team are in great shape for this morning's game and it is doubtful if R.M.C. will have anything on Hob. Gilmore's bunch. Kendall, Williamson, Martin and Hall make a fast back line and should give the cadet's wings a very busy morning. Forster at quarter can be depended upon to handle the team satisfactorily.

The officials for the big game will be Elliott Greens and Ted. Savage both winged wheel men and there should be no fault to find with their decisions.

After the game this evening there will be a big Smoker held in the Union for the Queen's team and a good programme has been provided. This is free to all and a large turn out is expected.

The teams will start as follows:

SIGNALS RAN WELL IN YESTERDAYS WORKOUT

Shaughnessy Had Twenty-two Men Out and Put Them through Best Signal Practice of the Season

With twenty-two men out in uniform this afternoon, one of the best and snappiest practices of the season was put in. There were no scrimmages, but everybody was used, and "Shag" kept the boys on the go for a good hour and a quarter up and down the field.

Laing and Lewis started on the outside wing positions, and with "Bink" McEwen at quarter showed some great speed. Laing as usual showed his ability to get away and kicked off some of the inside men like hot cakes. "Bink" has a tendency to kick too far ahead, but towards the end of the practice put them just where they were wanted. The team had the wing backs down to a nicety, and the end runs could not have been better. The old war horse "Bos" Mathewson tore through the opposing imaginary line for large gains every time, and Chiqu simply ate up the yards. Stuart Fraser was out, and when Laing and Lewis went in, he and Wilkes held down the end. Woolhat is a very promising man, and with a little more experience will make some of the fellows work pretty hard to hold their jobs.

apt. Lee was out but retired early as did Billington. Shaughnessy is certainly taking no chances a out any of his men.

There certainly was a marvellous contest shown to yesterday's practice, and when Queen's line up this afternoon, they will be up to a different team than played Varsity.

At the end of the practice, "Shag" lined all his men up at the far end of the field, and after giving a few yards start to some of the heavyweights, blew his whistle. For a while things looked like a revival

CORRESPONDENCE

October 11th, 1912

The Editor McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—

In to-day's Daily I notice that you have connected my name with the notice of the McGill Conservatorium Orchestra.

Might I point out that I am interested in the McGill University Student's orchestra, which is composed entirely of students, and has no connection with the Conservatorium.

Any students who play orchestral instruments should join the Student's Orchestra, and can arrange to do so by seeing Mr. J. A. Smith, Vice-Rector.

I hope that in future you will not get these two organizations mixed.

Yours sincerely,

J. D. Armstrong.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

All those who contributed to the special fund for "bailing out" the six students arrested yesterday will kindly come to the Union lobby between one and two this afternoon in order that their money may be refunded. Messrs R. C. Come and W. H. G. Murray are in charge of the distribution.

The Lit. meeting unfortunately had to be postponed. The same programme is offered for next Friday.

The result of the Scores left the Sophomores the winners, with a score of 36, the Juniors were second with a score of 26, whilst the scores of the Seniors and Freshmen were 24 and 17 respectively.

In applying for tickets for the game between Old Eli and West Point, the Yale authorities allow each Senior and Junior three tickets, Sophomores two, and Freshmen one each. There is no charge for the tickets, but ten cents is taken from each man to cover clerical expenses.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

Michigan is instituting field hockey for girls.

Indiana has a Married Students Club. There are now twenty-six members, besides several juniors.

Wisconsin put on a "hazing stunt" in broad day light last Friday. Several Freshmen were ducked in the lake, but the authorities did not interfere. The Pathe Moving Picture Co. were the chief conspirators.

Columbia has established a new department which should be distinctly practical. The department is that of Health and Sanitation. The object is to take care of any students who may be ill.

"Gus" Peterson, welter-weight champion has been engaged as coach of the Princeton Wrestling Team.

A "Woodrow Wilson" Club is being organized in the University of Georgia.

At the first meeting this fall of the candidates for the Yale baseball team next spring, sixty-eight men reported and more are expected when the football men are able to turn out.

Fifteen men taking the Forestry Course at Toronto have left for the fall camp at Frank Bay, near Sturgeon Falls on Lake Nipissing, where they will be located till the end of October.

In a Michigan professor's section of seventeen students, there are representatives from nine foreign countries. They include Cubans, Japs, Armenians, Poles, Russians, Germans, Frenchmen, Porto Ricans and Hawaiians.

Keir Hardie, the British M.P., is to address the Students Club of Columbia University on Oct. 15th.

The Freshmen at the University of Georgia are made to wear bright scarlet caps. Any freshman who does not comply with the rule has his name published in the "Red and Black" the University publication.

INJURED STUDENT GIVES STATEMENT

The two men who were so unfortunate as to be run down by the police patrol last night were interviewed by the "Daily". While neither of them are so seriously injured as to require hospital attention it is only a miracle that such is the case. The story as told by the two unfortunate is essentially the same.

"We were walking up McGill College Avenue, three or four abreast, occupying the roadway, but in quite a peaceable manner. Suddenly, and without warning, two horses and a patrol dashed in among us. I was thrown to the ground, and luckily between the two horses. It was a very narrow escape."

The other victim was more seriously injured, the wheels passing over his knees.

Questioned regarding an alarm, both students were most emphatic that no bell had been sounded.

HISTORIC BRITISH COLLEGE CONFERS NOTABLE DEGREES ON MEDICAL PROFESSION

PRINCIPAL DELIVERS MOMENTOUS MESSAGE

Varied Entertainment Given by Medical Society—Executive Forecasts Vigorous Policy—Professor Simpson in Usual Happy Vein

In the Assembly Hall of the Medical Building, last evening, the Medical Society held the first meeting of the year. This was different in some respects from meetings of past years, in as much, as it took the form of an informal social—the formal aspects being noticeably missing. Notwithstanding a strenuous game of Golf Principal Peterson was first to appear. He welcomed the members of the first year in his usual hearty manner and congratulated them in having the foresight to choose such a famous institution as McGill for their Alma Mater. He outlined briefly his visit of last Summer across the Atlantic when he was Representative at the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of King's College, Dublin. And it was at this celebration that McGill was further honoured by degrees bestowed on two of her professors, Drs. Adams and Armstrong. In closing he exhorted the members of the Medical Faculty to take advantage of the broadening influences of the sister societies of the University. On account of his duties to other children of his large family the Principal was obliged to depart early. Dr. Elder next arose and thanked the members for the honour shown him by the Society and assured them of his hearty co-operation.

He testified to the strong hold that McGill had in the West, and in finishing said, "On behalf of the Society I wish to welcome every new face and I wish every new face to bring as many other new faces as they can induce to come."

At this point Mr. Hartman, '16, rendered a Vocal Solo, which was warmly received.

Dr. Finley was then called upon, and his funny story and advice was well received.

Dr. Adams' entrance was greeted with applause, well showing the regard in which he is held by the students. Here the speeches were forgotten, and a gastronomic feast was enjoyed.

Following this Dr. Adams was listened to with interest, and his usual good nature was apparent throughout his discourse. He had a fund of good stories and was heartily applauded as he sat down.

Dr. Birkett thanked the students for the opportunity given the members of the Faculty to meet the undergraduates.

Dr. Evans' stories were of the kind that especially appeal to medical students.

Professor Simpson, one of the most popular of the younger men of the Faculty did not attempt any humour but tried to show the men of the first two years the advantage of the Society meetings.

Throughout the evening the best of good fellowship was exhibited by both Professor and students and the interest taken by the Faculty was shown by the large number present.

Dixon, '13, President, outlined the programme for the first part of the year, and thanked the members of the Faculty for their attendance. "Come fill your glasses up," followed by a lusty McGill yell terminated the evening.

THINGS THEATRICAL

HIS MAJESTY'S

Mrs. Flske and the Manhattan Co. in Edward Sheldon's new play "The High Road," is scheduled at His Majesty's for all next week, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees, and considering Mrs. Flske's position as the unquestioned leader of our stage, it will needs be one of the most important and artistically gratifying of the year.

"The High Road" is the story of a woman's life from its early struggles amid poverty and soul-starving conditions, her gallant progress in the face of almost overwhelming odds, with ever a spiritual growth, steady and sure until she finally emerges triumphant in a splendid destiny.

The play depicts the different epoch marking periods in the life of Mary Fage whose childhood and early youth had been spent upon a small, rocky and unproductive farm in northern New York. Early left motherless she had been the household drudge for a father from whom unkindness was almost her only portion, but even this could not stifle the great soul and the love of beauty and romance which were her from God. How she succeeds, despite heartbreaking disasters, how she becomes one of the great servants of humanity, and, after years of striving and disillusion, finally finds a great love and her woman's happiness, these make up for the warp and woof of Mr. Sheldon's play.

EVERYWOMAN

CONCERNING EVERY WOMAN

The modern morality play, Every Woman, written by Walter Brown, is now the sensation of London, where at the famous Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, it is the wonder and astonishment and delight of the British people. The English have found in this great moral document written by an Englishman the same lofty lesson which has swayed hundreds of thousands of Americans. It is entertainment most refined and chaste; drama singularly impressive and moving; spectacle which bewilders with its magnificence; opera rich in sensuous sound and elevating in appeal. Those who have seen it are its advocates and advertisers. Those who have not seen it are assured an event singular and momentous among life's pleasures. Every Woman, with the original New York cast, will be seen at the Princess theatre all next week with the usual matinees.

THE ORPHEUM

Next week's bill at the Orpheum will consist of five standard headline attractions so that it is hard to say which should be mentioned first in this connection. As some name must first be mentioned without conveying the relative merit of that name as compared to the other features, arrangements can be made that among the heavy list of attractions Laura Guerite, formerly prima donna with many of the big recent New York musical successes, will hold an important spot in the bill.

Miss Hermine Shone, with her specially selected company of artists, will present the farcical fantasy, entitled "The Little Goddess," or "Devanland."

Miss Rosaling Coghlan will, with her company of legitimate artists, present a very artistic playlet, called "The Obstinate Miss Granger" which Miss Coghlan has used for the past few weeks in her short, but triumphant tour of the vaudeville theatres; Kenney, Nobody, and Platt have been headline features in almost every vaudeville theatre they have played. They are the creators of the Mr. Nobody comedy and are sure to create plenty of laughter at the Orpheum next week; Borden and Shannon, are singers and dancers of the highest class and are bound to be a big hit; Lydia and Albine have just arrived from Europe where they have been making a pronounced hit for the past three years.

MCGILL DEFEATS Y. M. C. A.

Last night in the Intermediate Water Polo Series, McGill defeated the Y.M.C.A. by the score of 11 to 1.

McGill is well represented down at Angus, the large C.P.R. shops here. Forman, Johnson, Morhill and Barnes, are all holding down positions there, and from what the Daily hears their success is assured.

The Keenest Edges Ever Made

Poets have sung and historians told of the razor-edged blades of Damascus steel with which men used to carve each other.

Those were wonderful products of the steel-worker's art for the time and generation. But modern Science knows where those men guessed, and its keenest products, carry edges uniformly sharper and harder than the best the old steel-workers turned out. Every piece of steel from which Gillette blades are made has to come up to a carefully-worked-out chemical analysis, so searching that any defect is quickly detected. Then each razor blade is hardened through and through by electricity, at a temperature regulated to a fraction of a degree, giving an even, perfectly hardened metal that hand-forging and rule-of-thumb methods could never equal.

GILLETTE Safety Razor Blades

At your Druggist's, Jeweler's or Hardware Dealer's, buy a Gillette—you'll enjoy its lasting keenness. Standard Sets $5.00—Pocket Editions $2.00 to $4.00—Combination Sets $2.00
